Navigating state and federal services can be confusing for parents of individuals with IDD, including autism and providers who serve these individuals. Please join us to learn about:

- navigating and maximizing DDA, SSI, ABA, & Medicaid services and benefits;
- financial planning options to preserve financial eligibility for DDA, SSI, and Medicaid benefits; and
- legal options to support decision-making after age 18, e.g., Guardianship and Power of Attorney.

Biography:

Katrina Davis is a mother of two children and a career family advocate. She brings a blend of personal and professional expertise to Seattle Children's Autism Center as a case manager. Katrina is passionate about helping families navigate the complex maze that accompanies an autism diagnosis and advocates tirelessly for her own son with autism.

Ashley Greenberg is a graduate of the University of Washington School of Law. She has been a staff attorney at Northwest Justice Project (NJP) since 2008. Since joining NJP's Medical-Legal Partnership in 2015, Ashley has been engaged in individual and systemic advocacy to get people the healthcare and benefits they need.
