LEND Psychology Trainee

- I am a School Psychology PhD student at UW, currently in my 3rd year in the program.
- I am originally from Boston, but prior to Seattle called Portland home for about 8 years while I was working as a school psychologist.
- Outside of school, I love to travel with my partner to new places. Otherwise, I can probably be found at home with my dog (Rowan) reading on the couch or stress baking cookies.
- I'm looking forward to learning from other LEND members and collaborating to better serve children and their families. My primary interests are related to evidence-based practices and early development.
